

NGO - PEACE & KINDNESS IN ACTION

X. United Nations

The International Peace Trees Program for the SDGs developed by NGO International Research and Training Center and its Pragmatic Process of Establishment in Countries, Regions, Cities, Schools and in Personal Practice has the specificity to involve the young generations and their communities towards the 17 SDGs.

It aims:

1. To inform and massively raise awareness around the SDGs and necessary collective mobilization.
2. To stimulate research, innovation, and entrepreneurial spirit for the SDGs and in particular for the younger generations.
3. To give the opportunity to all to cooperate together to solve problems and achieve the SDGs for the younger generations and their future.
4. To offer the International Peace Tree Program's practices of excellence, which are highly effective for populations and the Blue Helmets (in the event of armed conflict or extreme tensions).
5. To innovatively encourage all children, young people, educational communities, schools, cities, and countries around the world that provide opportunities for their youth to actively contribute to the achievement of the SDGs.
6. To mobilize corporate sponsors for the International Peace Trees Program and the SDGs to enable countries to develop the program as national programs in developing countries.
7. Our objective is to give as many young people as possible access to the tools of excellence and educational materials essential for the construction of their future, for the future of humanity, and for the planet.

NGO - PEACE & KINDNESS IN ACTION

The Pragmatic Operational Process aimed at supporting cities and villages to become “Active Cities for Peace and the SDGs” responds to a need for citizen mobilization and creative actions around this 2030 agenda and the common vision of the 193 signatory countries of the 17 SDGs of the 2030 Agenda of the UN and those of Agenda 21.
